THE BLACK HILLS.—The following items give the situation out in the Black Hills, at present.

The members of the Indian commission left Fort Laramie the other day to meet the combined bands of the Sioux, on Shadron Creek, between Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies, where they will negotiate for the purchase of the Black Hills country.
Senators Howe, of Wisconsin, and Allison, of Iowa, are members of the commission.

The bands of Sioux from the north are anxious to sell, and will do so on reasonable terms. The Ogallalas and Brules, on the other hand, will endeavor to get as much for the country as they possibly can. It is thought the treaty will be consummated by the 15th of this month.

The miners are leaving the Black Hills, day by day, in considerable numbers, while others are pushing their way into the country by circuitous routes, thus avoiding the military. Camps of miners are scattered along the road, where they are waiting the results of the treaty, but many of them are determined to go in there at all hazards. Col. Dodge's command will leave the Black Hills about the 1st of October. Two companies of infantry and one of cavalry will be left in the Hills to keep out the miners until cold weather sets in.

MATT CARPENTER in a letter to old Zack Chandler, has this to say concerning newspapers:

"I have learned one thing—and I tell it to you for your future guidance —never contradict anything a newspaper says. Some months ago the Milwaukee News published an infernal falsehood about me. Being out of the Senate, I thought I had a right to contradict it. So I wrote a civil note to the paper for that purpose. It published only one word of my letter, and that because, as it said, I had spelled it erroneously, and editorially said, if I would live in peace I had better mind my own business. I took the hint; for if there is anything dear to my soul, it is to live in peace. So I never contradict a newspaper."

A copy of the New England Cour-rant, of the date of February 11, 1723, issued by Benjamin Franklin, from an office on Queen street, Boston, has been presented to the Virginia State Library by Dr. James Beale, of Richmond, Virginia. It is printed on a single sheet, a little larger than an ordinary sheet of letter paper, in two columns, without rules. It contains a prospectus; "His Majesty's most gracious speech to both houses of Parliament" on Thursday, October 11, 1722; a paragraph in regard to twelve Episcopalians who were imprisoned for refusing to pay rates to a Presbyterian minister at Bristol, and two or three paragraphs of marine news.

The new patent pocket cook stove has opened another path in the wilderness of journalism. When they come into common use, this is about the way an item will read. The fire alarm last night was occasioned by a conflagration on the person of Mr.
George McPheter. As he stood on the corner of Woodward and Jefferson avenues, fire was seen breaking out of the gable end of his left pants pocket. The alarm was promptly given, but before the angry element was extinguished, the pants, together with a valuable plug of tobacco and a four-bladed jack-knife, were entirely consumed. Insured in the Trower & Sons Mutual Company.

THE ORIGINAL CONFEDERATE FLAG.—At a recent meeting of the Palmetto Guard they were made the recipients of the first confederate flag raised in the late struggle, and as this banner was identified with the career of the company, it is doubly prized as a relic of the past. The donor, Mr. John S. Bird, of Lourens, an old member of the company, in a letter accompanying the flag, thus tersely gives its history: "In 1860, before the passage of the ordinance of secession by this State, Captain Edward Mills, of the bark Jones, belonging to the Palmetto Line of New York packets, raised this flag at his masthead in New York Harbor, and his vessel was mobbed, but they could not compel him to strike his colors. On his return a gold-headed palmetto cane was presented to him by some of the Palmetto Guard, and in turn he transferred to them the custody of the flag. The secession of the State was quickly augmented by aggressive military movements, and the flag accompanied the Palmetto Guard in their various encampments. At the siege of Sumpter it marked their parade ground, and was used in the truce boat that met the United States barges.
The Palmetto Guard occupied the fort immediately after the surrender of Anderson, and this flag was the first raised on its walls after the salute and before F. J. Moses, Jr., had arrived at the fort. The flag remained with the company until they were mustered out of the war, and was then taken by Mr.
Bird to his home, and has since remained in his charge.—Charleston News.

THE New York census-takers have concluded their labors, with results far from satisfactory to the prophets who have been predicting all along that the Empire City would prove to have a population of at least a million and a half. The figures, in fact, show that in five years the total increase has been but 85,000 on the island of Manhattan, and that the aggregate population now, including the inhabitants of the lately annexed district of Westchester county, is only 1,060,272.
The rate of increase has been about 17,000 per annum, which is a trifle more than the rate for the decade ending 1870, and about 10,000 per annum less than the yearly average between 1850 and 1860. An analysis of the figures by wards distributes the new residents almost entirely among the up-town wards, two of them lying along the southern limits of Central Park having absorbed more than half of the total increase.

LAKE TAHOE, in the Sierra Nevada, is 6,220 feet above the level of the sea. Its greatest depth is rated at 1,525 feet by government engineers, but it is claimed that recent soundings have given over 2,000 feet. It covers an area of some 3,000 square miles, and is surrounded by high mountains.
It never freezes during the severest weather, and its winters are unequalled in the general serenity and bland-ness of the atmosphere, and its brilliant clearness and purity.

It may be true, as sometimes stated, that the pen is mightier than the sword; but it is evident in Vicksburg.
Miss., at least, the pistol, with its modern improvements, has a little advantage of the pen. The statement having been made that four of the editors of the Vicksburg Herald were killed in as many months, the Herald says that is nothing to the mortality in the office of its cotemporary, the Vicksburg Sentinel, which had five of its editors killed and then died itself.
